The State We're In

From the tremendous satisfaction of an "A" in an especially hard subject to the letdown of a broken date with that special someone, the state of being a Warrenite is pretty terrific! We go from complete bewilderment to enlightenment, from shyness to the joy of many friendships, from fatigue and depression to boundless energy, gaiety, and excitement, according to the state of things as we progress through a year at Warren.

No one day at Warren can be considered routine, for it stands out in someone's mind. The football player will never forget his winning touchdown, nor the basketball player, the victory in a double overtime ballgame. The scholar will not forget his straight "A" card, nor the "goof-off," his relief with a 70. The Homecoming queen will always remember the sparkling moment she was crowned; the cheerleader, the nerve-racking day she was chosen. The club president will remember the morning the speaker didn't arrive; a frustrated girl, the night of the Prom when her zipper broke. Everyone remembers that thrill of a big date, or the disappointment of going out and not having a good time. And the memory of hiccupping aloud in class lingers in the mind of an embarrassed student. Teachers and students alike will remember the day everyone flunked a test, and who could forget staying up all night typing a research paper due the next day? Time passes on, but it's the little things at Warren that make each and every day add up to a very exciting, memorable, and challenging school year.

As we look forward to the future with anticipation, we cannot help but look back over our achievements with pride. And all in all, one has to admit the state we're in at Warren Central is very, very good!

Warrenites Challenging,

Life is quite an experience and Warrenites try to make the most of it. Each of us has his own hopes and dreams and strives daily to come a little closer to achieving our goals.

Every day is filled with little insignificant happenings that guide us in making future decisions. Whether we go to college or business school, the armed service, or immediate employment after graduation from high school is a decision we must make early in the year. We are faced with the challenge of making good grades and achieving to our greatest ability in order to qualify. Each of us looks forward to the day when we graduate.

Find Life Exciting

But life with no play or excitement is just as meaningless as all play and no work. Extra-curricular activities make each school year different from the previous one. An especially interesting speaker at a club meeting can mean the difference between walking in the dark and having a goal to aim toward. Pep sessions, ballgames, proms, picnics, parties and everyday life are full of excitement, which is a treasured feeling of all Warrenites.

Little things help shape the outcome of every day. And day by day we grow older and wiser as we, as Warrenites, tread the challenging path of tomorrow, known as life.

Spirit—Warrenites Have It

Warren's eight majorettes, led by Nancy Willman, senior, spend much time preparing their routines for the half-time entertainment of football and basketball games. The girls, accampanied by the Marching Warriors, provided new routines ta be enjayed by the sports enthusiasts.

in All Phases of Life

Spirit. When that word is heard, it brings to mind the thunder of voices at a football game, the rhythm of the marching Warriors, the yelling of the cheerleaders at a basketball game, the driving beat of a band at a sock-hop, the proud feeling felt by those contributing to the annual "Feed a Family" project and the enthusiastic applause after a convocation.

Spirit, though, is much more than all this. It is also the strength of responsible students striving to reach their goals—graduation and college, business training, military service or marriage. As Warren Central students, we carry this spirit with us every day—affecting not only our own lives but the lives of the people around us. The things we say and do also result from this undying spirit.

To our athletes, it is this spirit that makes them do their best to win. Spirit guides Warren Central students through our six class periods and the many clubs which we may participate in. Spirit makes us the individuals we are.

Activities Give Sense of Accomplishment,

School is more than just a place for learning; more than a mad rush from Physical Education to Algebra; and much more than late hours of study before a final exam. It's more than heavy books, dry pens, and broken slide rules. It is even more than being required to stay awake, yet remain silent during study hall.

School is pep sessions and football games, sock hops and parties, proms and picnics. For Sophomores it is a strange building, a new experience. For Juniors it is more self-confidence, and for Seniors it is graduation and plans for the future.

School is also a variety of clubs. These clubs range from social, to service, to vocational. Participation in these organizations offer an array of opportunities in which we may broaden our horizons. We gain a sense of accomplishment through all these activities as we become aware of what our world of today is, and what it offers to us. We also are growing up, readying ourselves to meet the challenges of today and the future.

Week-ends Adventurous, Fun-filled,

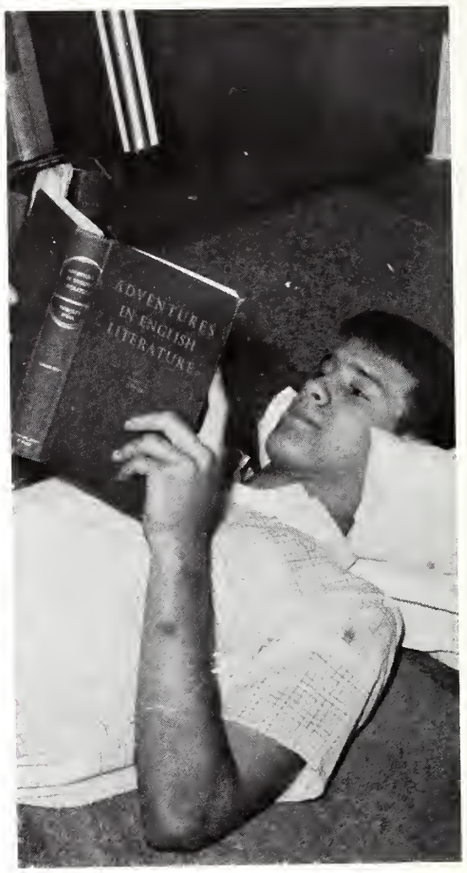
Being one af neorly eighty seniors toking exploratory teoching, Bruce leaves for Grassy Creek where he helps teach physicol education.



Still not finished with his lit. assignment, Bruce gets more comfortable as he once agoin studies, this time in the peaceful chombers of his bedraom.

At 6:15 every Fridoy night, Bruce determinedly strides out the door for the footboll gome ot Worren, where he ploys end on the Worrior teom.

Caught in the oct of being himself, Bruce enjoys a "night with the boys" as he, Chorlie Gray, ond Bob Sponcil hove some fun ot Frisch's.

But That's Not All!

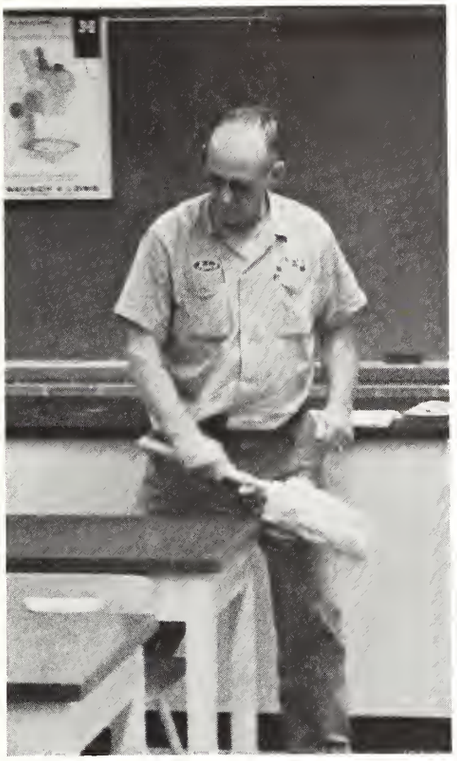
For nine and a half months, teenagers in the Indianapolis area spread their time among school, homework, jobs, extra-curricular activities, ball games, and dances. They spend two and a half days having a good time, and the next five days recovering.

Week-ends are busy times. Activities range from doing homework to doing unmentionables. They give students and teachers a chance to relax and recover from each other.

Friday nights find most students attending a ball game and sock-hop, climaxing the evening with a trip to Frisch's. While some students spend Saturday doing homework, others are found at their jobs, participating in school activities, or catching up on lost sleep. Saturday night is traditionally "date night," but for those breaking tradition, a visit to the Flame Club is often customary.

Sundays give Warrenites a chance to enjoy what is probably the quietest day of the week. And, students and teachers alike "panically" prepare for the coming five days.



Although no students are present, the janitors remain busy during after school hours cleaning the building and preparing it for another day.

The last day af schaal is filled with final exams, fand farewells, and the annual Wigwam sign'um party where the students receive their yearbaaks and take a few maments ta share their feelings with friends befare summer vacatian.

Althaugh designed with eating in mind, the cafeteria is a multipurpase raam used far lunch between 11:00 and 12:30. It alsa gives students a chance ta relax and visit amang friends, ar passibly da same last minute cramming.

School Year Brings Emotional Response

Feelings. Warrenites have feelings. At times they are personal and varied. But other times these feelings become one dominating emotion that overshadows all others.

It might be that first day feeling; that glad-to-see-you f e e l i n g that comes while shuffling down the hall among laughing, eager friends. Maybe it is an empty feeling when you finally pay that last class fee.

Or how about that enthusiastic feeling during a pep session? You're yelling your vocal cords to ribbons while people for miles can hear you tell that team, "Guys, we're behind you all the way."

The last few days before Christmas vacation as Warrenites busily search for gifts, a feeling of what Christmas is all about suddenly becomes real. You remember why it is a time for giving gifts and singing Christmas carols.

A twice-a-year feeling the typical Warrenite has is a dreadful one brought on by final exams—that hurry-up-and-cram feeling only relieved by the satisfaction of accomplishment when the last test paper is turned in and you know you've done your best.

As the snows melt and studying gets harder, a unique feeling of restlessness combined with a where's-it-all-gone feeling hits you. The year comes to an end and you relive it again as yearbooks are distributed.

But shining through all this in every moment is that you're a Warrior-and proud-of-it-feeling.

Comes to End

After at least eleven years of schooling, we, the Seniors of 1967 entered our last year at Warren with mixed emotions. Being seniors, we were expected to act older and set examples for others. We did set examples, although we did not always act our age.

Being a senior brought added responsibility for today and anticipation of what the future would bring. Suddenly, we were the school leaders, the exploratory teachers, the returning lettermen, and the ones envied by those younger. But with these responsibilities came decisions.

Our futures were no longer planned as they had been for twelve years, and it was up to each person to decide what he was to do.

Although life did have its serious moments, there were also many times of fun and happiness. Classes weren't always boring, and a riotous lunch period broke the day. Our final year was climaxed by a much anticipated, yet nostalgic Prom and a carefree and wild, traditional Senior week. And as Commencement closed the door to our school years, it opened many more, waiting and challenging us to enter.

As Commencement ends twelve years of schooling far some five hundred Warren Central seniors, certain memories climaxing the final year will remain vivid in the graduates' mind as they mature.

NFL Rated Top Chapter For Indiana

Numerous persons and organizations have brought pride to Warren, and the National Forensic League has added to this esteem. Being named the top chapter in Indiana and one of the best in the nation, the NFL was presented with the Leading Chapter Award for the Central Indiana Region. This award brought not only great honor to our speech and debate teams, but also the huge responsibility of living up to it. Although this proved to be a challenge, it also was an incentive that urged the teams on to victory and success.

The Leading Chapter Award was given to Warren on the basis of membership and degrees of achievement. Warren has 142 active members and 308 degrees. Junior Mike Banta led all NFLers in total point accumulation. Following were Dick Morford, Don Bicknell, and Dennis Ose.

ACADEMICS

Learning then thinking. This is a never-ending process followed by Man. He acquires a new concept through an experience, he contemplates the personal use of this newly-found principle. Over and over and over again Man practices this procedure until it becomes an unconsciously performed habit. For an indefinite period of time in the life of everyone, the pursuit of a formal education is the main objective. At this time, the learning-thinking process is used to its fullest extent as an intense study is made into all fields of life—from astronomy, to music, to zoology. Characterizing this period are the use of such tools as books—big, easy books, little, hard books, reams of paper, and quarts of ink, and experiences like flunking a quiz, finally finishing a research paper, or discussing current events. These are the tools and experiences that make the state we're in . . . achievement.

Specialized

Extro credit reports often help students learn more about the subject they are studying. Nancy Willmon delivers a report to her Senior English class.

With the goal of being able to use and understand the English language to the highest degree possible, the English Department of Warren this year has offered courses in grammar and composition, literature, speech, drama, and journalism.

In the grammar and composition classes, emphasis was placed on developing writing skills. To achieve this, students wrote themes, short stories, and research papers. During the second half of the English course, novels became quite familiar as Warrenites busily read and discussed the books.

Speech students found that as the weeks went by they could write and deliver entertaining and convincing speeches.

In Dramatics, the many areas of stage production were studied as Warren dramatists enacted parts.

Beginning Journalism classes offered budding writers the opportunity to develop and improve their writing skills.

An essential part of every English course is the writing of themes. Sue Lombord, 12, diligently works to complete her composition by the end of the closs period.

Basic, Advanced Learning

Science has taken tremendous strides in the last twenty years. Man splits atoms, orbits the earth, and replaces worn out human organs with plastic substitutes. Twenty years ago such things were not even imagined. In a world changing this quickly, it is essential that people have at least a basic scientific knowledge.

To furnish this knowledge, Warrenites found a wide assortment of courses offered to them by the Science Department. Courses ranged from the basic physical science to physiology and zoology.

Students wishing to gain a basic understanding of all fields of science enrolled in the science course.

Biology and chemistry classes offered to the student preparing for a college education, a greater depth of study. Through dissection, experimentation, and visual aids the organs of a crayfish and the chart number of helium became well-known facts.

Even more advanced work was offered to those students interested in one of the many careers of the science world. Botany and zoology courses explored the processes and functions of plant and animal life while physiology and physics students found specialized study in the areas of animate or inanimate objects.

By examining the skeleton, Nancy Fleetwood, 10, gains more knowledge about the bone structure.

Numerous Opportunities

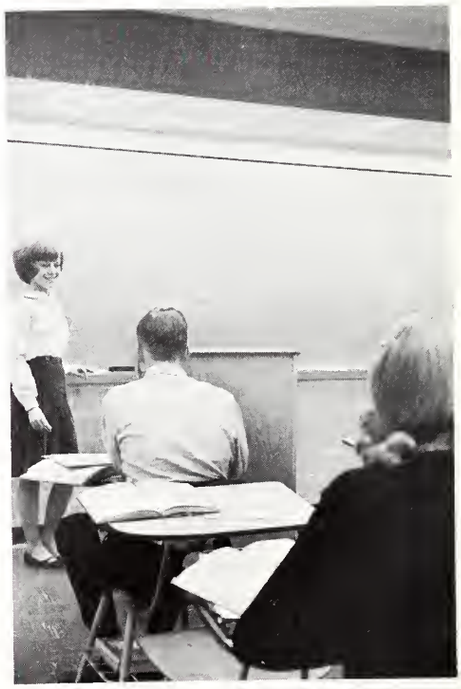
Discovery—the key to mathematics.

Taking this as a guideline, the Mathematics Department of Warren sought to impart knowledge to Warrenites through experimentation more than the traditional method of blind acceptance.

Guided by a few basic facts presented in the textbook, past understanding of mathematic principles, and a helpful hint from the teacher, students discover how and why a line curved that way or a whole sheet full of figuring resulted in one-fourth.

First year Algebra and Geometry classes were available, stressing the importance of logical and reasonable thinking. Students wishing courses in higher mathematics as preparation for college found classes in second year Algebra, Senior Math, College Algebra, and Trigonometry offered. These classes were opportunities to gain a more specialized knowledge for use in a world that is finding new applications of higher mathematics every day.



Concentration on an unsolvable math problem is an experience common to most Warren math students.

Warrenites

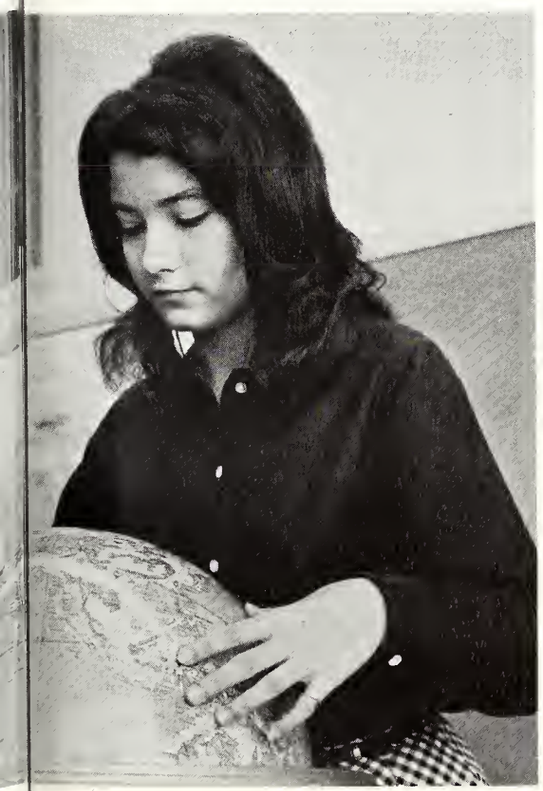
In a theme written in the first week of school a Warrenite hurriedly summed up the purpose of the Social Studies Department: "To gain an understanding of how and what makes this old world tick is the reason why I am studying History." With the aid of Warren's modern teaching facilities, the broadly-based department did just that.

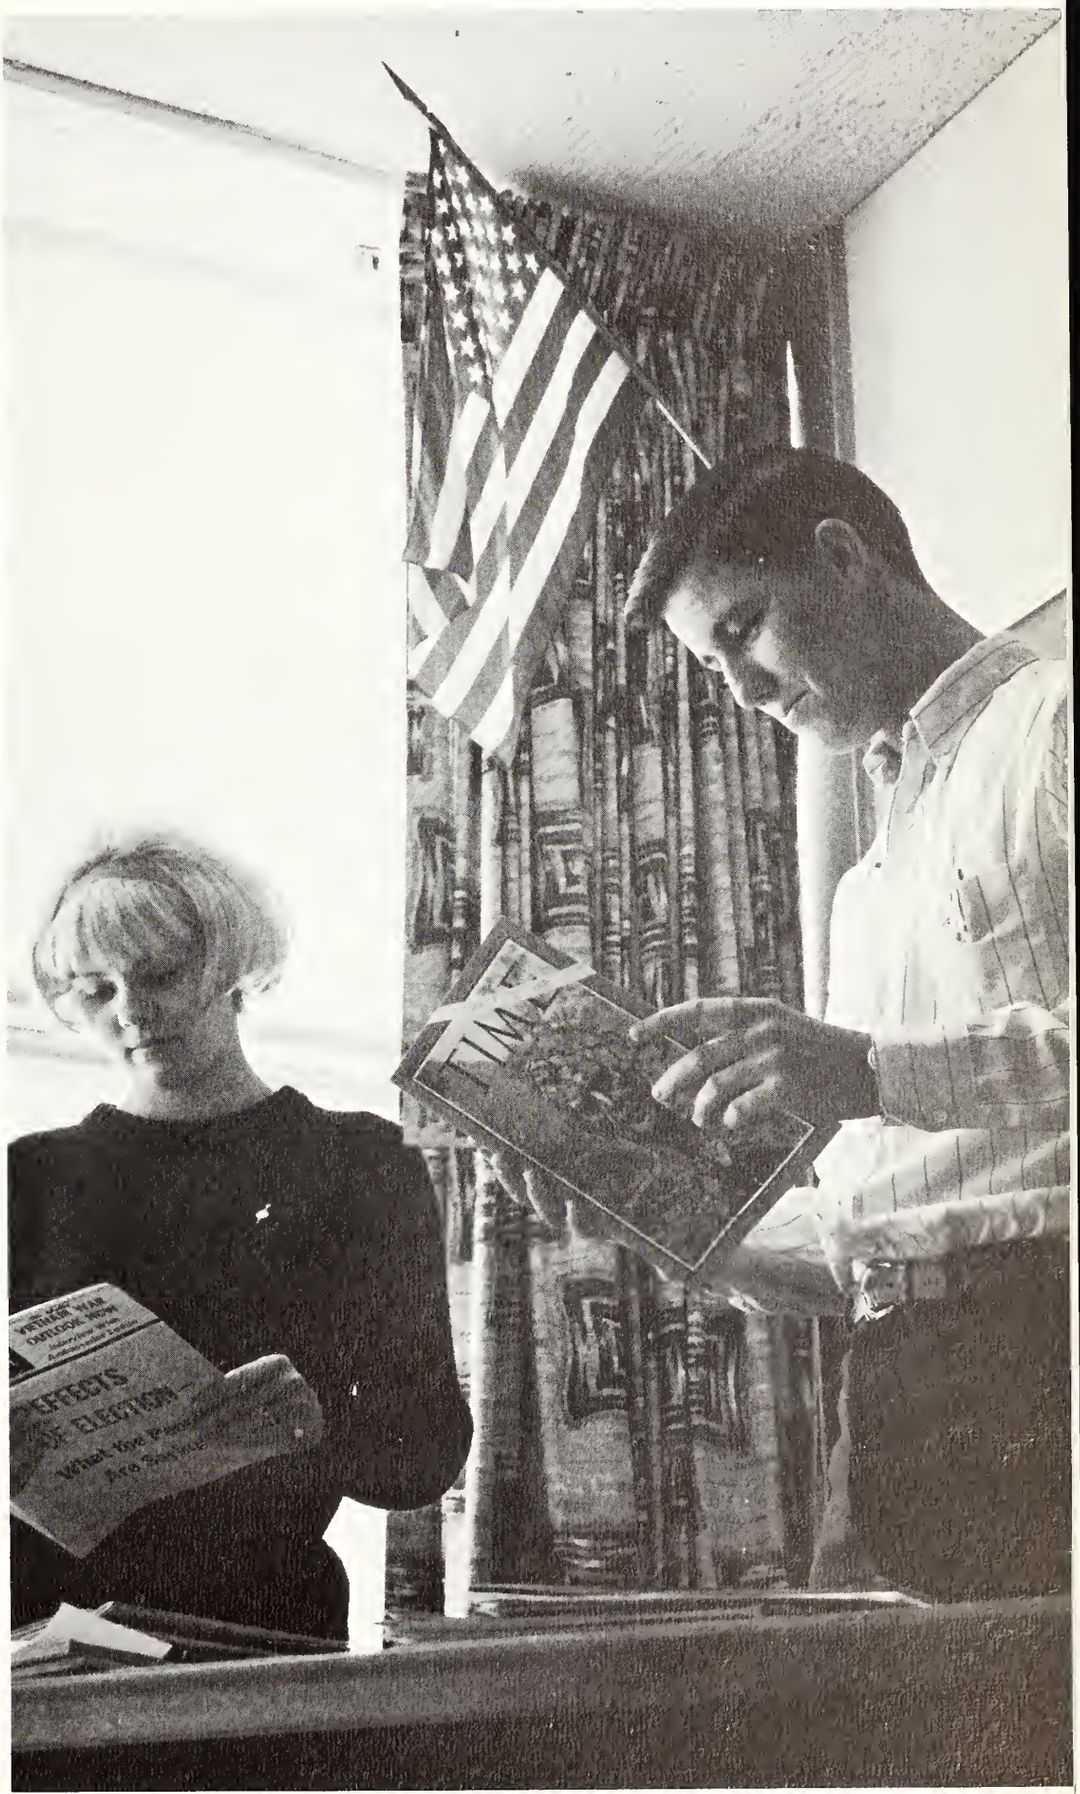
Participation in Mock Senates, Mock Courts, and a Mock Session of the U.N., gave government and international relations students a working knowledge of these vital democratic processes.

In the history classes students found debates on current topics and skits portraying historical highlights to be informative and entertaining in the study of our nation's and the world's history.

To students in psychology and sociology classes, the study of Man's thinking and actions as he relates himself to the world in which he lives proved to be quite challenging. Cadet teaching classes offered an experimental view into education.

Dave Betzner, 11, lists countries of the world as Michele Setty, 10, finds them on the globe.





Scarlett Lintner, 12, and Jack Hinkle, 12, look through current event magazines for articles which they can use for their projects in International Relations Class.

Modernization Assists Language Study

Abave: Susie Van Treese, 10, and Jerry Hagan, 10, add calar ta French with a dialogue illustratian.

Passing the open door of a classroom in the language area this year, the Warren student might have heard the tape-recorded voice of a German as he drilled the class in speaking, or possibly the stirring sound of the French national anthem as the class sang it, accompanied by a record. These were signs of the many methods and activities employed by the Foreign Language department in the study of French, German, Latin, and Spanish at Warren.

In the modern foreign language classes, emphasis was placed on speaking. Equipped with tape-recorders and tapes of actual speaking citizens, the language laboratory gave students a chance to record and hear their own voices.

As supplementary material, Warrenites also read native short stories, sang songs, and viewed films explaining the customs and historical features of the country being studied.

Debbie Harshey, 12, looks through the magazine "Jour's de France" for information which she can use in a report in her third year class in French.

Pupils Learn Important Lifetime Skills

Every once in a while as Warrenites were in the halls between classes on an errand, they saw and heard signs that gave them a clue as to the activities of the Fine Arts Department. They might have seen in the upstairs hall bright colors being applied to a large mural; or maybe they heard coming from the direction of the auditorium the loud vibrations of eight or ten drum sets as the band practiced for a concert. These were evidences of the creative talent being developed in the art and music classes at Warren.

Inside the classrooms even more projects were in the making. Art classes were busy learning the skills of pottery making, painting, or architectural designing.

Opening a door in the music area might have brought forth the balanced tone of a Warren vocal group or the deep full-bodied sound of the orchestra or band as they practiced. Often the polished product of these classroom sessions was presented to the school in art exhibitions and concerts.

Coordination

Because of the necessity of cars in today's society, the need for safe, well-trained drivers becomes evident.

To help the new driver at Warren become proficient in learning the rules of the road, thirty-two hours were spent in the classroom. With the aid of films, charts, and speakers, students learned about highway driving. Practical use of the knowledge became available as the beginning drivers filled the driver's education cars once a week for behind the wheel practice.

Many health experts point out that a sound healthy body as well as a highly trained mind are important to overall development. To fulfill this requirement nearly every Warrenite participated in the Physical Education Classes.

A daily schedule of calisthenics, running, and participation in group games kept Warren muscles in condition. Social graces were also improved as Warrenites enjoyed co-ed folk dancing.

Homemaking

Deep in the heritage of America is the importance of a strong family unit. Attainment of this goal depended greatly upon proper home management.

Such things as figuring the area of a rug and knowing how to find the best buy in draperies were learning experiences in housing classes. In foods, the preparation of tantalizing meals was the main objective.

Child care classes dealt with understanding the formative years of baby's life. Everything from formals to pajamas were sewn in the clothing classes as girls learned the skills of clothing construction.

The wide area of Business Education this year at Warren included six courses all of which were keyed to obtaining the skills required in business world occupations. Typing and shorthand courses benefited students interested in clerical positions. Instruction in bookkeeping, accounting, business mathematics, and business law were offered.

Industrial Vocation Goals

Living in a nation that is the world's industrial leader provides many job opportunities for people skilled in machine usage and repair.

Understanding the functions of the many systems found in an automobile and being able to repair them were the main objectives of the transportation classes.

Drafting gave students having an interest in architecture and machine design a chance to do some creative work, as well as learn about the principles of design in tools already being used.

Skills were developed by building actual working equipment as boys constructed cabinets and lamps in Woodworking classes and small radios and other electrical equipment in Electronics. Working with spinning lathes and crashing presses, Machine Shop students gained a basic knowledge of the tooling processes used today in heavy industry. Printing classes offered other job experience as students designed and printed forms and other materials for the Warren township schools.

MAN-YACS

ACTIVITIES

An education is acquired through many learning experiences. Far from being limited to the classroom, these experiences and knowledge are widened through active participation in extra-curricular activities. Warren Central's 46 organizations ranged from student government to scuba diving to home nursing, and offered students the opportunity to explore their different areas of interest and to develop new interests. An integral part of teenage living, activities were the very heart of excitement and anticipation of upcoming and special events and daily school life. Held before and after school, and during homeroom period, activities kept students busy as they obtained personal satisfaction and fulfillment by rendering service to each other, the school, and the community. Through active participation, Warrenites acquired new experiences and gained new interests as they made the state of Warren . . . go.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS—FIRST ROW: Sharan Ellis, secretary; Sue Life, treasurer; Sharan Casey, parliamentarian. SECOND ROW: Dan Bicknell, president; Gregg Andersan, vice-president.

One method through which the students of Warren Central High School voiced their opinions in the planning of their school activities was through the Student Council. At the beginning of the school year the students from each home room elected one Student Council representative and one alternate.

The Student Council's major projects and activities included the Student Handbook, the sock hops, and the supervision of queen elections throughout the year. The Council extended support to other clubs, chartered new ones, was responsible for the nativity scene in front of the school, and was responsible for the large Christmas tree placed annually in the foyer.

The aim and purpose of the Student Council was to work together to maintain the ideals of Warren Central High School. It strove for higher standards for all involved and attempted to promote a better understanding between the students and the administration.

The Warrenites' class councils were the Senior and Junior Councils. The Senior and Junior Councils represented their appropriate classes, planned various class activities throughout the school year.

Each September one boy and one girl are chosen from each senior and junior home room to represent their respective councils. Those selected attended the meetings held on Wednesday mornings during home room.

The forty-two member Senior Council chose class colors, the style and color of caps and gowns, cards and announcements, planned the Senior Prom and Variety Show, and presented a traditional Senior Gift to the school.

The forty members of the Junior Council selected the two contrasting styles of class rings, and sponsored the annual Turnabout Dance which featured the "Dawn Five" to help finance the Junior Prom held at the Southside Knights of Columbus, April 28, 1967.

Recognition Attained by Honoraries

Honoraries at Warren Central High School are an important goal for each student. The National Honor Society is comprised of those students whose scholarship, character, leadership, and service show them to be worthy Warrenites of this honorary group.

The forty-seven members, chosen through a faculty committee each Spring, met on every third Monday to plan various school activities. These included the annual Spaghetti Supper given before the Student-Faculty game on March 10, the induction ceremony for the new initiates, and the presentation of the two one-hundred dollar scholarships to deserving students. One of the scholarships was given to a member of the Honor Society while the other one was presented to a non-member.

The National Forensic League, NFL, is the honorary speech and debate society at Warren Central. The Varsity Debate team, with its numerous outstanding honors, is a smaller part of the National Forensic League.

To gain membership in NFL, a student must have accumulated twenty-five points in various speech and debate tournaments. These necessary points were usually received by a Warrenite after he had attended two or three speech or debate meets held at different high schools.

Mr. Harry Wilfong, debate coach, explained that the National Forensic League was not a club, but a competitive team which travelled all over the state to match their speech skills and argumentative dexterity against other high schools. The members practiced almost every evening after school to develop a competitive spirit as well as one's speech ability and persuasiveness. Each member strove to achieve worthwhile goals set by the NFL which brought honor and recognition to Warren Central High School.

Student Activities Captured by Wigwam

As the text-books closed for the last time on the 1965-66 school year, plans for this year's Wigwam were well underway. The new members were announced at the publications banquet.

Editor-in-chief Janet Hillier and managing editor Dayna Rodewald spent two weeks during the summer at Indiana University High School Journalism Institute learning everything they could about putting together a good yearbook. The National Scholastic Press Association which sets standards for yearbook production awarded the 1965 and 1966 Wigwams All American ratings.

Besides publishing an enlarged book with an additional 16 pages, more than previous years, the members of the Wigwam Staff were responsible for writing and producing the annual Wigwam skit to promote the sale of yearbooks. With copy to write, pictures to crop, and ever present deadlines to meet, sometimes it seemed to the staff that the book would never be finished.

The 1966-67 Owl Staff continued this year its record of publicizing the news of the school and promoting good public relations. The staff started working long before school was in session when Editor-in-chief Jeff Thatcher attended a journalism conference at Ball State University and Indiana University this past summer. Other staff members also attended various conferences such as Ohio University.

Under the watchful gaze of the miniature owls which adorn a shelf in the journalism office, the Owl Staff members worked under the pressure of deadlines throughout the year to produce 18 bi-weekly issues. Members of the Owl Staff, always on the alert for newsworthy happenings at Warren Central, usually moved up from beginning journalism and remained on the staff their junior and senior years. The journalism students sought positions such as reporter, photographer, page editor, columnist, editorial writer, business manager, managing editor, or

The front page of the Warren Owl was usually reserved to inform the student body about future events, while the back page dealt with all the sports events of Warren with side comments from the sports editors' "Athletes' Feats." Inside the newspaper were the columns, Personality Plus, Tee Pee Chit Chat, and Editorally Speaking, written to entertain and inform Warrenites.

Honors were given to the 1965-66 Warren Owl as they received a first class rating from the National Scholastic Press Association. NSPA's American Newspapers Critical Service grouped the more than 1,000 high school newspapers on the basis of enrollment, frequency of publication, and method of printing. They judged each paper in all areas of production from coverage through writing and makeup. The first class rating was given for excellent work of the 1965-66 second semester Owl Staff.

Dramatists

Quill and Scroll, the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists, is composed of the top journalism students at WCHS. The members of Warren's Chapter, the Dorothy C. Teal Chapter, were chosen for their ability and achievement in journalistic work. Quill and Scroll recognizes outstanding accomplishments by Warren students on the publication staffs which include the Wigwam and the Owl. The group was responsible for the Winter induction ceremony for the new initiates with guest speaker R. K. Shull and the annual Spring Publications Banquet.

The Warren Chapter of Thespians, international honorary dramatics society for deserving students, is composed of those students who gave outstanding dramatical service to the school. Membership is based upon a point and award system and was earned by those students who had accumulated one-hundred hours or more of dramatic experience or a total of ten points. The members of this group usually played major roles in the school plays; however, important people such as stagehands and make-up crews also qualified. The thirty Thespians were in charge of a Spring and a Fall induction ceremony and acted as the executive council of the Dramatics Club at Warren Central.

The Madrigals, one of the outstanding singing groups at Warren, is a select mixed ensemble of eighteen members. These members were chosen through an audition by which each student sang a solo, sight-read music, and performed a rhythm selection.

Favorite as entertainers throughout the school and community, the group performed at such places as the Music Teachers Association, and at school affairs such as the Fall Concert, Administration Convo, Hi-C Club, and the Tudor Dinner. The Madrigals also performed at several Christmas engagements during the Christmas season and holidays.

Another select vocal group is the Trebletones. The eighteen girls who compose the group sang popular music at various places which included the State School Superintendents Association and Monument Circle during the Christmas season. The group also sang at the annual Mother-Daughter Valentine Tea sponsored by the Warrenette Clubs.

"Don't forget to sound the d in hand. Now, let's take it from the top again. Ready . . . one, two, three—start." Such might have been the instructions of Mr. Philip Dunn as he directed the practice session of one of Warren's choral groups. Learning how to enjoy and appreciate all types of music and developing the voice as a musical instrument were the main goals of the five choral groups. To most Warrenites this year the Warrenaires, Girls' Glee Club, and Windsors were groups often heard in various convocations. Singing selections ranging from sacred music to show tunes, the groups produced a musical blend that won them many honors.

Heading the list as the largest group this year was the Girls' Glee Club. It provided a strong backbone of massed voices helping to give the choral concerts that needed "full-bodied" sound.

A mixed group of 67 members, the Warrenaires, participated along with the other groups in the fall concert October 20, as well as the Easter services and spring concert. The highlight of the year for the Warrenaires was the Christmas convocation. Fulfilling a tradition at Warren, the group formed the human Christmas tree producing a very dramatic celebration of Christmas.

Thanks to junior Eloine Raab, the department's newest vocal group was officially named the "Windsors" this year. Winner of the contest sponsored by that group, Eloine won ten dollars for her suggestion. Composed of 19 boys, the Windsors carried a full schedule of community appearances in addition to their participating in the choral concerts and the Easter Sunrise Service. In competition at the State Music Audition, the Windsors received a superior rating.

This year Warren Central's Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Bruce B. Fowler, was even bigger and busier than the 1965-66 orchestra. The membership of the orchestra increased by 10, and the entire orchestra took a tour of Southern Indiana as well as performing for the enjoyment of students and their parents.

During the 1966-67 school year, the Warren Central Symphony Orchestra was engaged in a great number of activities. Beginning in the fall of this year, the orchestra had its "Pops" concert which featured popular music as the name implies. The next performance was the Christmas Concert in conjunction with the choral groups of Warren Central. In addition, the Symphony Orchestra was very busy this spring. Accompanying the annual spring concert, "Evening in Hi-Fi," which was devoted to the music of the great masters, the orchestra performed in New Albany and Clarksville, Indiana, during Spring Vacation, in the Five Star Orchestra Festival in Muncie, Indiana, and for a television program in the Spring.

Included in Warren Central's Symphony Orchestra were a number of small ensembles which had numerous engagements. One sextet from the orchestra performed at Eastgate, the Indiana State Teachers Convention, and at the Mother-Daughter Valentine Tea sponsored by the Warrenettes. The actual string orchestra, also, performed at the Valentine Tea.

The orchestra had four string quartets this year. The first quartet received a first division rating in both the district and state contests, performed at two banquets, one of which was attended by the Governor of Indiana, and at the Honor Society Induction. Two other quartets, as well as a trio, received first division ratings in the district contest, and another quartet received a second. The concertmistress, Jane Heiwig, received a first on her violin solo in both the district and state contests. The orchestra provided music for Warren's spring musical, The King and I and concluded its year by performing at baccalaureate and commencement in June.

Smartly stepping off into a fast revolving pinwheel formation on the football field or bathing the C. E. Eash Auditorium with the melancholy sounds of "Star Dust" were parts of the performances superbly produced by Warren Central's Marching Warriors. Under the direction of Mr. James White, the ninety member band brought entertainment as well as enjoyment and honor to Warren during the past school year.

Home football game half-times found the Marching Warriors busily performing unusual and varied routines as in the homecoming show. Featured in the show was the slightly percussionary rendition of "I Love Paris" led by guest drummer, Jack Gilfong, of Henry Mancini's Orchestra. Backing up Mr. Gilfong were eight drum sets played by members of the band's percussion section. Such performances as these resulted in the Marching Warriors marching off the field at Southport with a first division class A rating in the State Marching Contest October 10, 1966.

Adding a funny, satirical note to homeroom announcements were the sales promotions of the band as they conducted their annual Pop Corn Sale.

Held at the beginning of the school year and handled in an almost professional manner, the announcements ridiculed the common woes of the late-to-bed-early-to-rise student and incidently, sold a sizable amount of pop corn for the band.

With the close of football season, the band turned to the concert hall for its home. The Fall Pops concert, "All That Jazz," featuring the Al Cobine Band as guests opened the three-performance season. Next followed the "Two For the Show" concert on February 9, which combined the talents of the Warren and Lawrence Central Bands. The high point of the concert season was the Spring concert, "Spring Winds," presented March 17. The concert featured Mr. Ronald Gregory, director of Indiana University's Marching Hundred as a guest conductor.

The Pep Band, led by Jim Folkening and Richard Platt, and the award-winning Warriorettes, led by Nancy Willman, were also part of the total performance Marching Warriors. A flashy, enthusiastic sound was added to the home basketball games by the Pep Band while intricate routines were provided by the Warriorettes.

The Warrenettes Club, a girls' service organization, is composed of senior, junior, and sophomore girls. Each class was represented by a separate club, but all three worked together to uphold moral standards of living, to coordinate social activities for students, and to provide service to Warren Central during the past year.

The Warrenette Club's projects involved sponsoring the annual Mother-Daughter Valentine Tea and two of Warren's annual dances, the Fall Dance and the Christmas Dance. Both dances were held in the school foyer, which was decorated by art classes and Warrenette decorating committees. Music was provided by Knight Artists of Indianapolis for "The Fall Fantasy," November 5, while the Kurt Harrison combo played for the Christmas Dance, "Babes in Toyland," December 17.

Perhaps the students who received the least amount of recognition and praise at Warren Central were the numerous assistants; however, these people were often considered valuable for most Warrenites. The assistants' tasks included various activities such as delivering a forgotten term paper or a lost textbook, or that most important homework assignment to students in the classroom. Throughout the year, the office assistants picked up and distributed attendance lists each morning during homeroom and first period, answered the office telephones, ran errands, delivered messages, and helped to inform visitors to the school.

Classroom assistants aided their teachers by typing and grading tests, filing papers, making bulletin boards, setting up projection and lab equipment, and helping with classroom procedures. Any willing student was eligible to be an assistant if he or she wished to give up a daily study hall and accept the responsibility of the job. The assistants did receive certificates and recognition during the Honors Day program plus the satisfaction of knowing that they helped their school and its many functions in some way.

Black and gold "Warren Warriors" license plates appeared on numerous cars around Warren Township. The selling of these plates was the main project of the 1966-67 Lettermen's Club. The Lettermen's Club is a group consisting of all Warren athletes who had participated in a varsity sport and accumulated the required number of points to earn a letter.

The Lettermen sweaters are earned only if the boys are willing to sacrifice time, talent, and energy to gain this recognition. The varsity award is the gold sweater with the big black "WC." A senior may receive the second award, a white letter sweater, if he received a letter the previous year.

The principal aims of this club were to promote a wholesome athletic program and to help develop good sportsmanship and an interest in high school athletics. The Lettermen also sponsored the annual Fall, Winter, and Spring Sports Queen Contests.

Pep Block Sports Spirit

Along with the Lettermen's Club, the Girls' Pep Block helped increase the Warren spirit. Their support was much appreciated by the teams, coaches, and cheerleaders.

The Pep Block's outfits were the yellow button-down collared blouses with black skirts to represent Warren Central's school colors. The large group of girls met with the cheerleaders on Friday mornings during homeroom period to learn new chants, cheers, and songs.

Also, many of the Girls' Pep Block members often stayed after school to help make the colorful signs and posters to encourage pep and enthusiasm for the Warren Warriors. The only requirement that was necessary for joining the Girls' Pep Block was loyalty. For membership, each girl was compelled to attend all home games, the County Tournament, and Sectionals at the Coliseum, and to support the team with loud voices.

WARREN

ATHLETICS

The deafening roar of a crowd, the applause of an interested audience, the jeering of disappointed fans, a first place award from the judge, or a crushing defeat all contribute to the development of the Warren athlete. To the spectator, who can not only criticize easily, but also be the first to recognize skill, the athlete's performance provides entertainment and an emotional release. To the cheerleader, it is her chance to display her enthusiasm and that of the entire school. To the coach, it's a final test of fundamental skills and many hours of tiring practice. But to the athlete himself, it is a total performance of a combination of fundamentals learned. Hard work and endless criticism or glory, depending on the breaks of the game, a ref's decision, or often just luck, face the performer. And as our athletes work together and wear the black and gold, the state we're in at Warren was . . . proud.

Warren Gridmen Show Signs of Strength

As Coach Bob Wion of Howe High School put it, Warren had a "better team than its record" showed. And the Warriors head football coach, Dave Shaw, agreed. The Warriors posted a record of three wins, six losses and one tie, which ranked them seventh in the county for the 1966 season.

In the season opener, the Warriors took on the Tigers of Greenfield,a new addition to the schedule, and emerged with an 18-7 victory. However, the next game proved disappointing as the Scecina Crusaders scored three times in the last quarter to hand the Warriors a 34-0 loss.

Battling to a 0-0 tie, the Warriors and the Ben Davis Giants proved evenly matched as the Warriors had 152 yards rushing to the Giants' 156 yards rushing in the season's third game.

The Carmel Greyhounds nipped the Warren team 14-13 as the Warriors received their second loss. Slipping past the Warriors on a muddy field, the Arlington Knights handed the Warriors a 6-0 loss.

After losses to Carmel and Arlington, the Warriors defeated Tech High School, the defending city champions, by a margin of 26-7.

Before a Homecoming crowd of 3500, the Warriors held the Panthers of North Central scoreless until the last ten minutes of the game, when the Panthers scored twice. The Warriors scored in the last thirty seconds, but the Panthers came out on top, 14-7, in a game which was a "battle of defenses", as stated by Harrison Howard of The Indianapolis Star.

The Lawrence Central Bears upset the Warriors in an important county game, 14-7. The Hornets of Howe High School handed the Warriors a 27-12 loss in a battle which was much closer than the score indicates.

Ending the season with the Southport Cardinals, Warren's arch-rival, the Warriors emerged victorious with a 13-6 win on a snow-covered field.

Injuries claimed their share of attention during the '66 season. The effects of an injury-ridden season were witnessed as early as the Arlington game. Sidelined during the season were seniors Charlie Gray with torn ligaments, Buck Beranek with a broken leg, kicker Ron Randall with a sprained ankle, and Terry Bucksot with a torn spleen. Juniors put out of action were Mike Warren with torn ligaments and Rick Spilker with a broken thumb.

Warren Trio:

As Harrison Howard, the Star's Marion County sportswriter, put it, "Warren's defensive unit was clearly one of the finest groups in the county." The Warriors backed this point by having four players named to the honorary All-County defensive team.

Bruce Hickman, senior, was the only player on the All-county squad to receive the honor for the second year. Hickman clinched the position of end on the honorary team to highlight his 1966 football season.

Capturing the position of tackle on the All-County team was Ron Randall, senior, 6'2", 225 pound powerhouse. Randall, an all-around player, played the positions of linebacker, guard, and did the kicking for the Warriors.

Jim Ruster, junior, who led the Warriors with 80 tackles and 14 assists, filled in the position of guard on the All-County team. Ruster also was a half-back on the Warren offense.

Honored by being selected to the position of end on the All-County second team was Bob Sponcil, senior.

Reserves Capture County Champ Title

Warren's reserve football team went on the warpath to capture the title of reserve County Champs with an eight win and one loss season.

Carmel proved to be the only obstacle in the reserve Warriors' warpath, as they handed the reserves their only defeat, a 20-18 loss.

The reserves outscored their opponents with 182 points to 70 for the opposition, averaging over 20 points per game. Top scorers for the year were Bob Brummett, Ron Hon, and Larry Gray.

Harriers Finish Season Fourth in County

While making his debut in Cross Country coaching at Warren this year, Carl McNulty produced a fine team which compiled a four win and four loss season. To highlight his debut, the harriers received a fourth place in the county meet and a third place at the Ben Davis invitational meet.

This year's goal set for the team was for the harriers to run the two mile course in a time less than ten minutes. This goal was almost attained by Steve Burdine, junior, as the fastest time turned in for Warren's course with a time of ten minutes and twenty seconds. Fastest time ever set for Warren's course was nine minutes and fifty seconds set last year by Bill Morgan.

With only four returning lettermen from last year's team: Steve Klein, Bill Franklin, Paul Streets and Harold Crain, the varsity team fared very well.

Steve Walker, reserve member and a good prospect for next year, finishes the two-mile run in a form which helped the harriers to several victories.

Netmen's Fruitful 12-10 Record Produced

Coach Carl McNulty embarked on his coaching career at Warren Central with a 68-53 victory over the Martinsville Artesians. This proved to be just the beginning of the Warrior's winning season, consisting of 12 wins and 10 losses. The squad received their first defeats from the hands of highly ranked Tech, Scecina, and Lawrence Central.

Decatur Central's Hawks were the second team to be disposed of by the Warriors. The Warriors, led by Marty Miggenburg and Bob Sponcil with eighteen points each, trounced the Hawks by a margin of 72-61. Washington's Continentals overcame the 37-19 half-time lead of the Warriors by applying their famed full-court press to edge past the Warriors 63-60.

The Giants of Ben Davis were cut down to size as the Warriors triumphed by a 72-64 count. The Warriors were led by Marty Miggenburg, who had a season high of 31 points. Warren's next defeat came at the hands of the North Central Panthers, who edged past the Warriors to win by a margin of 52-48. The squad, led by Bob Sponcil with fourteen points, outscored the Panthers in field goals with twenty-two buckets to North Central's eighteen; however, the Panthers won on foul shots.

In preparing for County Tourney action, the Warriors got on the ball to win three consecutive games. The squad recorded the first win of the trio by overcoming the Red Devils of Pike by a margin of 64-60. Southport, the next team of the trio, was not able to match the height of the Warriors as Warren scored a 64-49 victory. The squad was paced by Bruce Hickman with eighteen points, followed closely by Marty Miggenburg with sixteen.

In the final game before tourney action, the Warriors triumphed over the Hornets of Beech Grove by a margin of 49-43. In the first round of the County Tourney, which was held at North Central, the Warriors defeated the Brebeuf Braves, who entered the tourney with only one defeat on their record. Miggenburg, with eighteen points, spurred the squad to a 58-56 victory over the Braves. In the second game of the tourney, the S p e e d w a y Sparkplugs eased past the Warriors with a 53-52 victory.

Carmel's fast-moving Greyhounds spoiled the Warrior's Homecoming as they squeezed past the squad with a two-point victory, 67-65.

Speedway's Sparkplugs, the team which defeated the Warriors in the County Tourney, got a better look at the Warriors as Warren traveled to Speedway's court to knock the sparks out of the Plugs. The squad, paced by Miggenburg with twenty points, beat the Sparkplugs by a comfortable margin of 71-48.

Two losses to Manual and Columbus marred the Warrior's record by bringing the number of losses to nine. Manual's Redskins took advantage of the squad's errors to emerge victorious, 50-47. The Warrior's last defeat of the regular season came as the Columbus Bulldogs stopped the Warriors cold with a 72-62 defeat.

With the beginning of the sectionals nearing plus the close of the regular season drawing near, the Warriors triumphed on a trio of three wins to end the season. Arlington's Knights were the first team to be toppled off their high horses by the Warriors as the squad blacked out the Knights, 59-50. The Hornets of Howe just could not hold the Warriors down as they watched Warren run off to a 65-48 victory. Coach McNulty guided the team to a victory to end the season as the squad streaked past the Franklin Central Flashes to win by a margin of 54-39.

In sectional competition, the Warriors won their first game by defeating the Chatard Rams by a margin of 66-41. The Warriors second game was against city-champ Shortridge. The game, which was supposed to be an easy victory for the Blue Devils, turned out to be a hard-fought tear-jerker as the Warriors lost 63-60 in a triple overtime. Seniors, Paul Streets and Bob Sponcil starred for the squad and also made the All-Sectional team by scoring seventeen and sixteen points respectively.

Winning Warrior Reserves Earn County Tourney First

Coach Robert Heady made his debut as reserve basketball coach here at Warren by starting the season with a victory over the Martinsville Artesians by a 40-30 margin.

The reserve hoopsters battled to compile a record of nine wins and eleven losses for the season.

Highlighting this year's reserve season was the Ben Davis tournament in which the squad finished in the winner's circle. To obtain the rank of number one team the Warriors had to defeat the Lawrence Central Bears by a margin of 53-40. In the final game of the tourney the team slipped past the North Central Panthers by a score of 39-36.

With the help of Coach Heady and the abilities of players such as John Sykes, Steve Walker, Jeff Means, and Larry Gray, the Little Warriors had little difficulty in compiling a respectable season's record.

Spirit Stick Granted to Warren Super-Six

Leading cheers at ball games and keeping spirit high on the cinder track are only a few of the duties demanded of a Warren Central cheerleader. Spending many after-school hours these girls decorated halls and the boy's locker room before games, spreading enthusiasm throughout the school.

Leading our moral supporters in the bleachers were Margie Miller, Janet Rumph, Sandy Koertge, Sue Life, Debbie Seigfried, and Connie Beinburg with the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Betty DeVol. Proving their capabilities early last summer, the super-six attended the Smith-Waldridge Camp at Syracuse, Indiana for one week. Represented at the camp were cheerleaders from five states. Receiving the highest honors of any group ever from Warren, our cheerleaders were awarded a first place rating in everyday competition and an overall first place ranking. Every day the "spirit stick" was given to the group exemplifying the most pep. Exhibiting the characteristics of model cheerleaders, the Warren Centralites were also recognized.

GAA Bowlers Participate in State Meet

Among the many recreational organizations here at Warren, the Girl's Athletic Association is the only one dedicated solely to the female Warrenite. These girls, directed by Mrs. Rosalind White, participate in various sports on specific afternoons after school.

Depending on the season of the year, the girls compete in archery, tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball, gymnastics, and bowling.

This year the GAA bowling team, consisting of Kathy Archino, who is vice-president of the GAA, Kathy McCullough, Judy Sims, Cheri Beaver, and Janine Eubanks competed in the state tournament. They placed ninth out of a field of twenty-four teams and received gold ribbons for honorable mention. Janine Eubanks led the team with a 417 three game series.

Agile Gymnasts Accumulate Experience;

Highlighting the 1967 gymnastics season was the fact that Warren Central was chosen to be the site for the first IHSAA state gymnastics meet. Warren, according to IHSAA statistics was one of the 31 schools in the state that has a team participating in competitive gymnastics.

In a year which was spent mainly rebuilding, the squad compiled a three win and nine loss record. Teams which fell at the hands of the Warriors were Ben Davis and Southport. The squad defeated the Giants of Ben Davis by a margin of 84-70. In the two meets with Southport, the team defeated the Cardinals with victories of 91-38 and 88-54.

Top participants for the year were Charlie Lyons, still rings; Tom Wade, free exercise; Dan Hurt, horizontal bar; and Randy Keys, free exercise.

In the invitational meet which was hosted by the Warriors, the squad displayed their talents by finishing in fifth position.

In sectional competition, several individual gymnasts fared quite well, however, team success was not as prosperous.

Outstanding Grapplers Perform Wonders

Although Warren's 1967 wrestling record was not very impressive, one win, ten losses and one tie, it was a season of rebuilding which should pay off when the 1968 season rolls around.

The grapplers single win was their opening match against the Hawks of Decatur Central. The Hawks proved to be an easy opponent as they triumphed with a 38-8 victory. New Castle was shown to be an equal match for the squad as they tied the Warriors 20-20.

Top wrestlers for the season were Steve Williams, Bob Keenan, Phil Whisner and Mike Reberger. Phil Whisner, junior, was the only grappler to advance to regional competition.

Another highlight of the season was when the Warriors traveled to Howe to place second in the invitational meet.

The 1967 reserve wrestling squad compiled a four win and eight loss season. With the returning varsity grapplers and some reserves the 1968 squad should be very effective.

Intramural Basketball Titles Gained

In their final year before graduation, the Senior Celtics intramural basketball team battled to finish the season in number one position in the Senior Division. The Celtics, led by Greg Nolley, Ron Randall, Nick Lady, and Bob Chaney, defeated the Scavengers by a score of 48-28 to obtain their title. Other outstanding teams in the Senior Division were the Cuandros and the Guarders.

It is traditional for the winning team in the Senior Division to play the faculty in the student-faculty game sponsored by the PTA in March.

For the sixth consecutive year Alan Miedema and Ronald Roach sponsored the intramural program.

In the Sophomore Division, the Spartans defeated the Eliminators to gain possession of the rank of number one team in their Division. The Spartans were led by Bob Haas and Jim Arvin. While the Eliminators were led by Lee Christie, Bill Cavender and Terry Toffold. Other outstanding teams in the Sophomore League were the Captain Kangaroos and the Dodge Boys. The Spartans' record was seven wins and one loss. The single loss was to the Eliminators which was avenged in the Play-offs.

Steve Smith, Steve Showalter and Bob Johnson guided the Aardvarks to the number one spot in the Junior Division. Being beaten only once during the regular season by the Mooners, the Aardvarks cruised to the division title by avenging their loss by beating the Mooners in the final game. The Razorbacks, led by Mike Robeson and the Good Vibrations were also strong contenders in the Junior Division.

Diamondmen Compile 9-2 1966 Record

An impressive record of 9-2 has been the best that any team has ever produced during the five years in which Coach Don Foreman has been coaching baseball here at Warren Central. After a slow start consisting of two hard-fought losses, Coach Foreman's diamondsmen came back swinging away to finish their season with a nine win and two loss record.

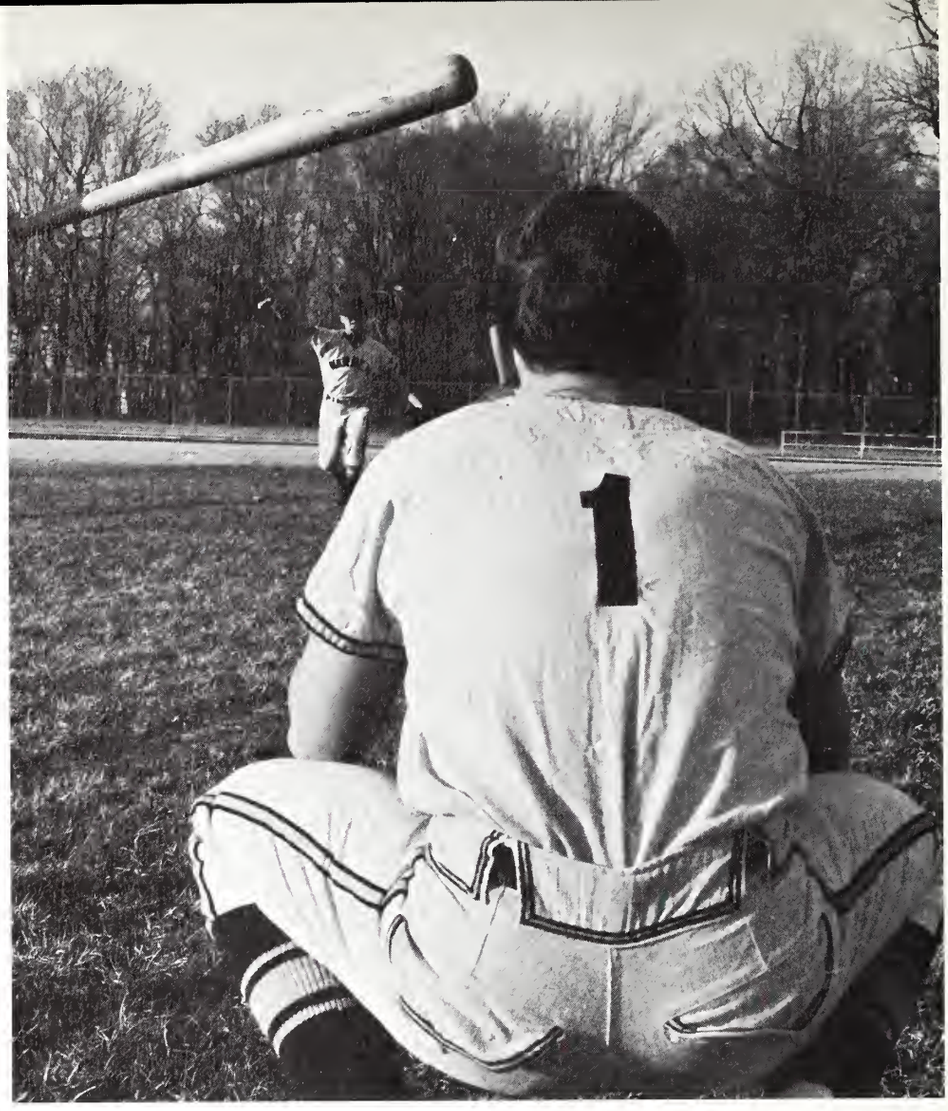
Outstanding pitching by Dave Foulk, Tom Limbach, and Steve Jones, backed by the strong batting power of Jim Wallace and Bruce Ruster, sparked the Warriors to their nine game winning streak. Dave Foulk's superior pitching ability started the team off on the winning streak by hurling them to a 2-1, hard-fought victory over powerhouse Beech Grove.

Buck Beranek, who played the hot-corner, third base, and John Ogden, who filled in the position of shortstop, proved to be valuable assets to the Warriors fast-moving infield. Both players should be back for the 1967 season to again help the team.

Leaders in the batter's-box were Jim Wallace, who connected often enough to finish the season with a .341 batting average, and Bruce Ruster, who compiled a .335 average.

Coach Don Foreman believes that the 1967 baseball season will be very successful, as he will be coaching almost the same team as last year with eight returning varsity players and several good reserves. Pitching may prove to be a "thorn in the side" for the team as Dave Foulk, Steve Jones, and Tom Limbach were all lost through graduation last year.

Diamondsmen for the reserves also compiled a good 1966 season as they overpowered their foes to finish the season with a winning record of five wins and three losses.



Pre-season practice is the key ta a successful seasan. During ane of these practice sessians, Bill Henderson warms up by giving an unseen Warriar batting practice.

Half-Mile, Two-Mile Records Overthrown

Cindermen Greg Nolley, Steve Klein, and Bill Franklin, the nucleus af Warren's distance running squad, show the stride which helps make the backbane af a goad team.

Showing improvement over the 1965 season, the 1966 track team compiled a record of two wins and five losses in dual and tri-meets. Coach Dave Shaw guided the team to its 82-30 victory over Chartrand, the second time in as many years to defeat the Chartrand team, and also a victory over Crispus Attucks and Scecina in a tri-meet.

Long-distance runner Bill Morgan paced the cindermen all through the season by setting new records in the half-mile and two-mile runs. The new two-mile record is 9:57.1 minutes and the new half-mile record, which was set during the meet with Ben Davis, is 2:02.8 minutes.

Although track is a team sport, it essentially involves a great amount of individual activity by each of the participants. With good trackmen, such as Bill Morgan and Steve Craig, a team has a good backbone. In a pre-season interview Coach Shaw predicted the 1967 season should be better balanced and, with Steve Craig returning, there should be some new records set to highlight the season.

Average Seasons Shown by Linksmen, R

Netmen for Warren Central, coached by Don Wasson, compiled a record of four wins and eight losses for the 1966 season. The racquetmen showed their best efforts in the opener against Sacred Heart, which the Warriors won 5-2, and the last match of the season against Howe when the team overcame Howe by a 4-3 margin.

Although tennis is a team sport, the individual player is very important. Top players for the 1966 season included Mike Dorsey, Dan Chinn, Dick Morford, Brent Gates, and Tom Dufek.

In the 1967 season, Robert Heady assumed the position of head coach. Mike Dorsey, Dan Chinn, and Dick Morford, returning lettermen, formed the nucleus of a promising 1967 team.

Coach Ronald Roach guided the 1966 golf team through the season with four wins and seven losses. Led by Chip Strauch with an average of 41.5 strokes per nine holes and followed by Rick Spilker, who averaged 42.3, the linksmen secured victories in the matches against Ben Davis, Washington, Chartrand, and Franklin Central.

According to Coach Roach, the best match during the season was the encounter with powerhouse Chartrand. Led by Rick Spilker with 39 strokes, the Warriors won the match by a margin of 8-4.

With linksmen Ron Bayless, Darryl Guiducci, Rick Spilker, Mike Robeson, and Bill Lowes playing on the 1967 team, Coach Roach expressed optimism in breaking even in 1967 competition.

ALBUM

For our 1638 students, 89 faculty members, and 4 administrators at WCHS, the school year provided a typical feeling which surrounded and involved us with ideals and successes, problems and failures. Our world was filled with temporary ups and downs so significant that they affected our entire outlook on life. We had become a part of a world different from all others. Age enabled our membership in the society which had become the center of attention in recent years. We had become a part of a society which was a world in itself. This exclusive world included its own dances and music as a result of teen night clubs which sprang up across the country. These young adults also invented their own language and designated their own set of leaders, following the pattern set by the youth of yesterday who are the leaders of today. Yes, the state at Warren was great, for the state was . . . youth.

Administration Plays Guiding Role

Mr. Jahn O. Reed, having completed his secand year as principal, efficiently carries aut his duties.

Mr. John O. Reed has two years as principal of Warren Central behind him. The feeling of being a new-comer has worn off. Problems have settled into their proper perspective and responsibility has taken on new meaning.

Once foreign, but now familiar, the face of Mr. Reed is seen in the halls of Warren Central High School during the day.

When the school year began in the Fall of 1965, a new world was opened to Mr. Reed, who was formerly the principal of Richmond High School, Richmond, Indiana. He was impressed by the enthusiasm and interest of the faculty and student body—all of which he is now a part.

Running a school efficiently is not an easy task and one man cannot do the job alone. The responsibility of educating 1650 students rests upon the shoulders of the ninety-seven capable faculty members. The result is top-quality school with its many accomplishments and a Special First Class Commission of which students and teachers are proud.

Mr. Obert Piety, vice-principal, assists Mr. Reed on administrative duties. These responsibilities include the scheduling of students and faculty into homerooms, classes, and lunch periods. Also as co-sponsor of the Student Council, he helps co-ordinate student activities.

Assisting Mr. Piety as the other co-sponsor of Student Council is Mrs. Maude Seibert, who is also Dean of Girls. Her duties include consulting with girls about their problems, checking morning announcements, constructing the complete school calendar, and the directing of various student activities. Mr. Clifford Gates, Dean of Boys, is in charge of daily attendance and is also a vice-principal. In a new capacity this year is Mrs. Joanna Head, the Assistant Dean of Girls. She helps to check attendance, assists both Mrs. Seibert and the Guidance Department, and is co-sponsor of the sophomore, junior, and senior Warrenettes Club.

Serving an the Baord of Educatian for this year were (left to right), Danald D. Dick, treasurer; C. Wayne Faster, president; Warren H. Timmerman, secretary; Herbert S. Fall, vice-president; and Jahn T. Taylor.

Counselors Aid Pupils During Year

The Superintendent of Schools, Austin E. Walker, and the members of the Board of Education, have worked hard over the years to supply the needs of a growing and prospering community.

To help give each person an equal opportunity to the individual, the attainment of his maximum emotional, mental, physical, and social development for a contributing role in a changing society, is the main objective of the School Board. The School Board plans the complete curriculum of the school body and co-ordinates the entire school system.

The purpose of the guidance office is to guide students in the right direction. Examples of students daily visits to the guidance office are for college, jobs, credits, and personal problems.

Heading this department is Mr. John Bass. Assisting him are Mr. William Glesing, Mr. Dave Shaw, Mr. William Porter, and Mrs. Joanna Head. Mr. Glesing serves as the Senior Counselor and is also the Athletic Director. Serving his first year on the Guidance staff is Mr. William Porter, who is new to Warren this year.

Queen Janet Reigns Over Jr. Prom, Fall Homecoming

Each year approximately fifteen girls at Warren are selected to fill a very special role that requires not only a friendly smile and a genuine liking for people, but also an abundance of poise and personality. These are the girls who make up the royalty, the queens and her courts, at Warren Central. Each Fall, Winter, and Spring, all three classes nominated the two girls they wished to represent them in the traditional homecoming elections. Then after a week of poster parties and campaigning for the senior candidates, a queen was voted upon by the student body. Several special elections were held when the seniors nominated five girls, one of which was to be crowned Princess of Light, and juniors voted on the six girls and six boys to vie for Junior Prom Queen and King. The Tudor dinner court was selected from Junior and Senior English classes, and for the first time this year, the Turnabout Dance crowned a king from a six-man court to rule over the dance.

The royalty history of Warren and the graduating class of '67 hold a special place for Senior Janet Rumph who was crowned Junior Prom Queen and Fall Sports Homecoming Queen. Being elected by a class and a school proud to claim her, Janet lived up to the high expectations bestowed upon the title she received. She gave time and service to the school which backed her in her three years as a cheerleader and musician, and her active participation in the many clubs of which she was a member. Classmate Debbie Fidler added beauty and sophistication to Janet's court. She, too, was active in school organizations, being class secretary for two years.

Future Homecoming Courts will consist of six seniors rather than the traditional two seniors and four underclassmen. This idea was suggested to the Lettermen's Club and the Student Council before it went to the student body for an all-school referendum effective for the 1967 Fall Homecoming.

Janet Rumph, 12, smiles with jay as she is crawned 1966 Fall Hamecoming Queen by her predecessar Karen Walker, last year's winner.

Debi Keesling, Jean Schlasser, Sharan Frast, Margie Miller and Debbie Fidler (seated) were the Seniar class's naminatians far the Princess af Light. The student bady then selected Debbie as Princess.

Royalty Selections Please Student Body

Annually the Christmas season is ushered in with a parade highlighted by the naming of a Queen of Light. Each Marion county high school is represented by a senior girl chosen by her classmates as a Princess of Light. At a luncheon held for the candidates, a wheel of fortune is spun naming the Queen of Light. Warren Central's candidate, Debbie Fidler, was chosen from a field of four other girls including: Sharon Frost, Debbie Keesling, Margie Miller, and Jean Schlosser.

In welcoming back WCHS alumnae, the theme "Mod Unlimited" was chosen to coordinate the 1967 Winter Homecoming. During the half-time of the basketball game against Carmel, senior Margie Miller was crowned queen of the festivities by last year's queen, Joy Henard. Court members included: senior Sharon Frost, juniors Jane Pauley and Judy Smith, and sophomores Nancy Dorsey and Sally Wuensch. The queen and her court reigned at the sockhop following the game held in the school cafeteria. Music was provided by the Sounds Unlimited.

Crownings Highlight 1966-1967

The second annual Tudor-Madrigal Dinner was highlighted by the crowning of a king and queen. From a list of 33 nominees, junior and senior English students chose seniors Jack Hinkle and Jean Schlosser to reign over the gala event. Members of the royal court included seniors Roger Aleska, Tom Bremer, Nancy Cochrane, Patty Cox, Nancy Day, John Goldsmith, Donna Goode, Greg Hall, Debbie Keesling, Randy Keys, Eddie Knoop, Lynn Krebs, Larry Mikesell, Sheri Myers, Mary Mulford, Debbie Noppa, Henry Olinger, Ron Randall, Martha Rash, Janet Rumph, Kathy Shields, Bob Sponcil, Larry Watkins, Tim Wertz, and Nancy Willman, Junior court members were Lynn Ayres, Kathi Burke, Pam Flick, David Kennedy, Eric Reek, and Steve Smith. Enjoying an evening in medieval grandeur, those in attendance came costumed in appropriate apparel and participated in old Christmas customs and traditions.

Queen Jean Schlasser and King Jack Hinkle ruled aver the festivities at the secand annual Tudar dinner far upperclass English students.

The Warren Invitatianal Track Meet was the scene af the 1966 Spring Homecaming followed by the Wigwam Spring Shuffle. Highlighting these events was the crawning af Barbara Humfeld as Spring Sparts Queen. Alsa nominated for this were Cannie Beinburg, Judy Smith, Margie Miller, Sharan Frast, and Cherie Faster.

Male Court Is Featured at Turnabout

The second Turnabout dance, now sponsored by the Junior Class, was one of the best-attended dances of the year. The Dawn Five, one of the most requested combos in the Indianapolis area, provided music as nearly 500 students danced and enjoyed themselves. Adding a bit of excitement and humor to the evening was the selection of King Tuobanrut I. Senior Mike Dorsey was crowned from the Sophomore, Junior and Senior all-boy court selected by their respective classes.

Poster parties preceding the election of the Fall, Winter, and Spring Sports queens helped set the mood for three Homecomings. Many energetic teenagers, ranging from three to twenty-five in number, gathered at the senior candidates' campaign manager's house to spend an evening making signs, posters, and tags to be worn. The halls of the school were then gaily decorated with these pieces of art urging students to back their choice.

Seniors Total Perspective Is Broadened a

Road 67—a road that's going places; a road that leads to the future and a brighter tomorrow. As seniors we have travelled this road for twelve years. Along the way we have been met by and accepted many challenges, each bearing the weight of a decision. For some, this load proved to be heavy; for others, it was light. Whatever the weight of the past, the road that lies ahead challenges us to continue to follow.

Although there are many side routes along the way, the road itself does not lead to a dead end. These detours may lead to our goals, but may also end in discouragement. No, the road is not a dead end, for it's going places—just as the class of '67 is.

Comedy "You Can't Take It With You"

Possessing a host of dramatically inclined and enthusiastic people, the senior class of 1967 was able to present a first-rate interpretation of the comedy, "You Can't Take It With You". From the informal auditions held in the auditorium in late September, Mr. William Ney, drama teacher and director, selected the cast for the varied and colorful parts found in the play. Different committees were also organized and soon work began in earnest. Prop committee members were seen carrying to school articles such as old, dilapidated books, and clothes reminiscent of the 1930's.

Many a stage crew member went home in the late fall afternoons with paint and paste spattered over his work clothes. The actors, many of them finding this their first real attempt in drama, were also found quite busy. Hours of repetitious rehearsing and lines upon lines of memorizing kindled new understanding about the glamorous world of the stage. But all the hard work and long hours paid off as the cast, with Bill Kendall, Karen Wallace, and John Dick playing lead roles, presented on November 10th and 11th a most enjoyable and humorous play, "You Can't Take It With You".

Seniors Jim Falkening and Pam Parker prave the impartance and effectiveness af make-up.

When we first entered Warren, we were somewhat awed and afraid. Gradually, however, we seemed to take our places, and finally the year we had dreamed of was here. We were the seniors—the graduating class of 1967.

We soon learned being a senior involved many new things. It meant having our pictures taken at Galloway's, making plans for our final prom, being measured for caps and gowns, and selecting cards and announcements, which each senior chose in his own style.

So, with this in mind, we approached graduation with anticipation.

GLENN MICHAEL MILLS

The merrymaking began with the Madrigals leading a gay singing procession of followers to the banquet hall. Along with jesters and peasants, elegant court ladies glided through the halls reflecting a kaleidoscope of colors from their candles.

After the crowning of Queen Jean Schlosser and King Jack Hinkle, the Lord of Misrule, Bill Kendall, climaxed the evening by leading the group in rituals of the Medieval banquet.

Graduation Prepares Seniors To Achieve

We, the seniors, had various things happen to us in our final year at Warren. Some of these experiences were totally unexpected while others were eagerly sought. New opportunities and ideas were discovered; different and exciting places and events were discovered. All the things we had done during our school career were recaptured with nostalgia. Employers, colleges, scholarship organizations, and honor groups took long, curious gazes at our schooling as they sought to honor us as our records saw fit.

For one senior girl, a school career that mirrored hard work, enthusiasm, and loyalty resulted in a rewarding experience. Margie Miller won the DAR Award of 1967.

Hectic moments leave little chance for a fashion-minded teen to always look her best. But these chaotic times are brought well under control by Sally Humfeld, Warren's representative on Ayres' Fashion Board. Likewise, confused choosing of "what to wear" is found to be "no problem" by Nancy Willman, who represents Warren on Block's Fashion Board. Sally and Nancy were carefully screened and chosen from two lists of thirty Warren senior girls. These two girls best represent the opinions and buying ability of the fashion minded teenage girl. Modeling teenage fashions in respective Block's and Ayres' tea rooms also promote the girls' poise and ability.

Toward Class Honor, Prestige, Distinction

Sugar and spice and all things nice are what Jan Noel, senior, makes when she begins puttering around the kitchen. And for this reason, she was awarded the title of being Warren's 1967 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Jan, from a field of 28 girls, won the title by answering a multiple-choice and essay test, which included questions concerning food, and family and home life problems.

The test, taken annually by senior Warren girls, is designed to give them the different aspects of family living and to prepare them for later life. With this award, Jan became eligible to represent Warren in competition against other Hoosier girls in the state contest.

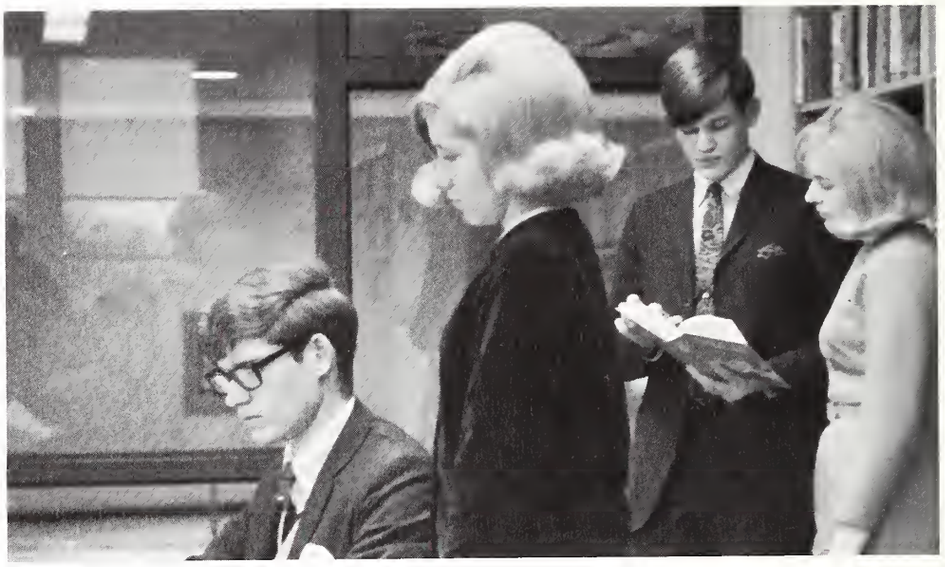
Everyday Routine at Warren Is Highlighted

After a week of exams and a frantic beginning of the final semester of our high school career, Senior dress-up day arrived and gave the members of the class of '67 a chance to show their maturity in the world of fashion. Ranging from conservative to Mod, Seniors displayed a variety of styles, colors and taste. Besides distinguishing ourselves from the underclassmen, we also had the chance to look and act a bit older which proved to be worthwhile.



Mike Overbeck, Cathy Orlopp, Tony Althous, and Pot Osborne find dress-up day a change.

Enthusiasm, Sportsmanship Displayed

Rated high in enthusiastic interest and support among senior activities were the Senior Bicycle Race and Powder Puff Derby held in early June. In early February, the Race Rules Committee composed of the Senior Class Officers settled on the requirements and awards. A grueling forty-lap bicycle race was planned with the prize for the winning team being a bucket of ice water splashed on them and a blue ribbon. For the avid female racer, the committee organized the Powder Puff Derby. Again ribbons, but no ice water, were the rewards reserved for the victors of the 350-yard race.

Pounding down the courts to hook in a shot for two points or gracefully toeing the foul line while positioning the ball for a strike were part of the efforts of many seniors as they joined one another in Intramural sports. With no physical education classes to relieve their boundless energy, a number of senior boys organized teams and set up a schedule of after-school basketball games. Teams with such names as the Senior Celtics and the Squeaky Schneakers battled together in games sometimes resulting in improbable scores like 121-18 from November to February. Senior girls interested in participating in friendly competition with each other and also spirited rivalries with other schools found the sports offered by the GAA most enjoyable.

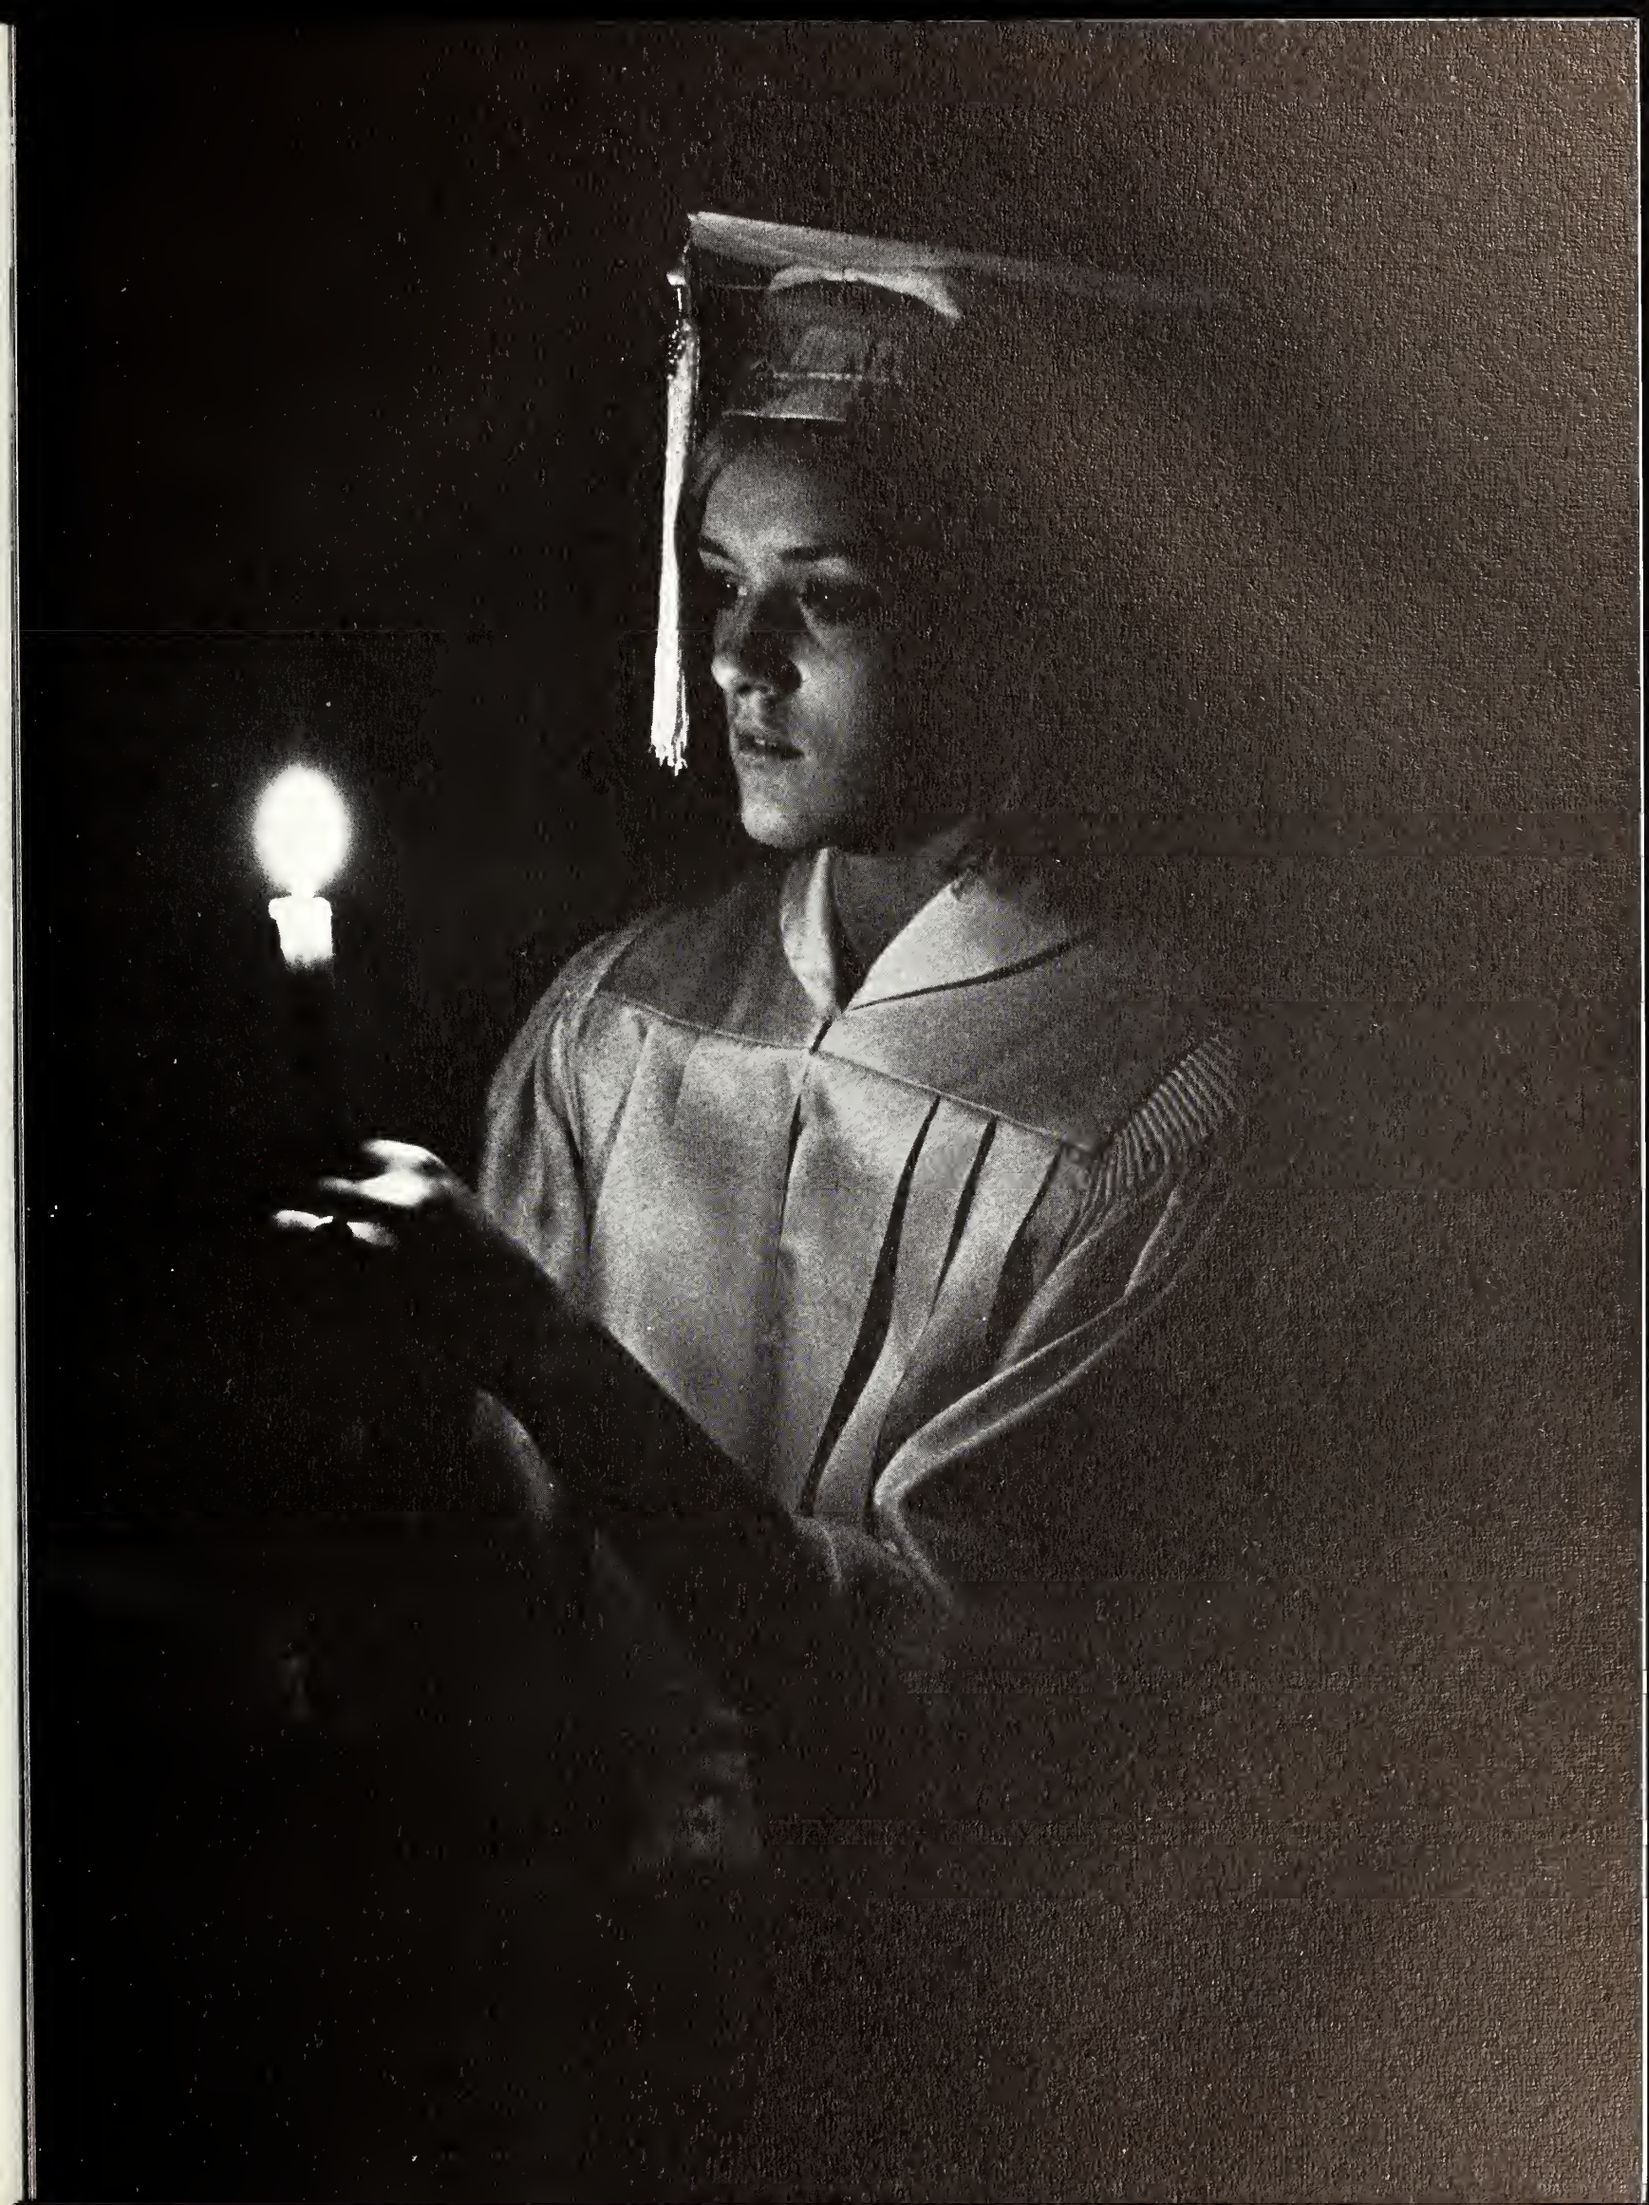
June 5, 1967—an end and a beginning.

An end only in the sense that we were no longer high school students, graduation climaxed an eventful year of activities and anticipation. The memories of our high school friendships and infatuations, dreams and realities, and traditions and fads will be treasured for many years.

With the beginning of a promising future as college students, hardworking adults, and parents, we were nervous as we faced graduation, but hopeful and confident of the years ahead. Upon culmination of the tassel ceremony, an anxiously awaited dream had become a reality. We, the Seniors of 1967, were now graduates beginning a lifelong journey into the future.

Debbie Noppa



The class of '68 realizing their Senior year will be the most important in their high school career, has gained experience necessary to withstand the pressures of a successful Senior year. In selecting appropriate courses and paralleling extra-curricular activities, the Juniors proved to be responsible citizens. The elevens' have a right to be proud of their fellow classmates, from all-county football player Jim Ruster to consistent blue ribbon speech team winner Joyce Dolick. Juniors have achieved many outstanding recognitions.

From 6'5" athlete Marty Miggenburg to 4'10" Patty Pride, the Juniors have proven to be a class of versatile individuals. Not to be limited to the realm of school life, from Scuba Diving Club president Dave Betzner to high-flying pilot Max Fall, many enthusiasts have ventured into responsibilities of the outside world.

Juniors Introduce Dome Ring to Warren

Again this year the Junior Class sponsored the "Turnabout Dance" which served the double purpose of adding variety to the usual sock hop and also giving the girls a long awaited advantage over the male population at Warren.

Like previous years, the Class of '68 enjoyed the two most important distinctions of upper classmen; class rings and planning a prom.

For the first time at Warren, the Junior Council chose two styles of rings to decorate Junior fingers. By the middle of December, the elevens were observed wearing both "Classic" and "Dome" style class rings.

On that special April evening, the Prom transplanted Juniors to a "Tropical Twilight" atmosphere where they developed memories to be cherished in future years.

Quickly Adjusting Sophomores Establish Themselves Socially and Scholastically

This year for the first time the Sophomore class evolved from two junior high schools, Creston and Woodview. Together they enjoyed the experience of establishing friendships with newly-found classmates. The cafeteria scene was one which typified the unification of the 573 students for the first time. Adding to the usual bedlam of lunch-time was the bubbling enthusiasm of the sophomores who found that eating was only one of the many activities which take place during the lunch period . . . such as buying sock hop tickets . . . finishing Geometry . . . solving world problems.

Change was the key word for the Sophomore class this year. The sophomores, not only relocated to another building, but made a radical transition which has caused an important change in the student's state of mind. In being a part of the Warren world, the underclassmen matured as the result of added responsibilities.

Driver's Education, a traditional sophomore course, requires this adult maturity. After completion of the course, the Sophomores fully prepared, received driving privileges and claimed with pride their long-awaited position in the adult world.

ADVERTISING

Earning then spending—a never ending process followed by teens in the United States. It is hard for the ordinary teen to comprehend how much he spends every year. For Warren Central, the figure nears the $1,000,000.00 mark. This shocking figure is the result of nearly $700.00 passing through each Warrenite's hands during the year, as they spend the money they have earned with part-time jobs, received in allowances, and have saved from summer employment and in their bank accounts. Teenagers are the target of commercial advertising in the United States today. This advertising is aimed at teens because they are the trend setters and most affluent buyers. While acquiring their future buying habits, teenagers are constant consumers throughout the high school years. Through budgeting and planning, Warrenites made the state of Warren . . . prosperity.

Warren Central juniors Rick Mckee, and Linda Miller had no trouble with a busy signal while visiting Western Electric where their fathers are employed. Linda lifted the handset of a new 500 General Purpose Touch-Tone telephone to her ear, while Rick McKee held the base. The phone, which is assembled on the production line in foreground, and thousands of others in a variety of models and colors are tested to make sure they will work properly when hooked up for the telephone user.

Another landmark in Indiana's prosperity picture

When all the latest statistics are in on economic growth in Indiana, you'll find RCA re-writing the record books. Shown above is the new Rockville Road plant west of Indianapolis—part of a $68 million expansion program that is making RCA loom larger than ever on the Hoosier map (the proof is on the right).

How does Indiana benefit from RCA's success story? To the tune of $140 million in annual wages and salaries. Not to mention the $75 million worth of Indiana goods and services RCA buys each year.

Is RCA a good place to work? Well, 25,000 Hoosiers seem to think so. And that total is growing. RCA offers good pay, challenging work and a bright future in one of the nation's most dynamic industries. But don't take our word for it—ask a friend or relative who works at any of the five Indiana plants about the exciting opportunities available at RCA.

Courageous Wigwammers Face March

Wigwam stoff members worked energetically, aften into the wee hours of the morning, meeting the necessory deodlines. Working tagether and coaperating with each other was essential in putting together the 1967 baok.

With the completion of the last page of the 1967 Wigwam on March 3, the yearbook staff breathed a sigh of relief. Although the main goal of the year had finally been attained, there was still much to do.

1966-67 had been a hard and hectic, but rewarding school year. Capturing the highlights of a nine-month period for some 1600 students is a responsibility that requires both time and energy.

There was never a dull moment in room 127 during sixth period when the Wigwam staff met. Besides meeting five publishing deadlines between October and March, staff members were found writing and producing a skit, delivering newspapers every other Friday, eating food snuck into the Journalism office, and using the final period to wrap-up odds and ends of a hard day's work.

After spring vacation, a last check of the book was made as final proof was sent by the publisher, Newsfoto Publishing Company, for approval. Selections were also being made for the positions of next year's staff. Plans for the Spring Shuffle and Publication Banquet were formulated as anticipation mounted for the distribution of the 1967 Wigwam.
